

Gary Attle is a partner at England member firm Mills & Reeve and leads their national higher education practice, which advises on all areas where universities need legal counsel, ranging from spin-outs to student accommodation developments to international joint ventures. Mr Attle's recent work involves advising universities on allegations of research misconduct, the student-university legal relationship, the regulatory framework for higher education, freedom of speech, counter-terrorism legislation and data protection/freedom of information. He is based in the firm's Cambridge and London offices in the U.K, and many of his matters have an international element to them. Mr Attle has served as a trustee of the Higher Education Academy in the U.K. He has also been a consulting editor to a leading textbook and a series of reports on higher education law. He obtained his law degree from Oxford University.

James Batson is senior investment manager and legal counsel in Bentham IMF's New York office, where he manages the investment process on potential cases from initial review through final resolution. Before joining Bentham, Mr. Batson spent two years in the litigation funding industry and twenty years with a plaintiff's law firm. As a senior partner, he oversaw cases brought on a contingent-fee basis. An accomplished litigator, Mr. Batson tried cases in federal and state court and before the American Arbitration Association, JAMS, FINRA and the Chicago Board of Trade. He also handled regulatory proceedings before the SEC, the NYSE and FINRA. Mr. Batson received a J.D. and an M.B.A. from Fordham University.

Austin Berglas is senior managing director and head of K2 Intelligence's cyber defense practice. Drawing on his deep investigative experience in counterintelligence, national security, criminal cyber investigations, and incident response, Mr. Berglas leads a team focused on advising global clients across all sectors on cybersecurity and cyber defense, providing proactive cyber defense, incident response, and threat detection services. Before joining K2 Intelligence, he served as assistant special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's cyber branch in the agency's New York office, where he oversaw all national security and criminal cyber investigations in the largest cyber branch in the FBI. Prior to entering the FBI in 1999, Mr. Berglas was a captain in the U.S. Army, serving in various roles as a light cavalry officer and deploying to Haiti in 1995 in support of Operation Uphold Democracy. He received his B.S. from Dickinson College.

Jon Bonsall is a partner at Massachusetts member firm Keegan Werlin, where he concentrates his practice in the areas of governmental relations, legislative advocacy, and regulatory and public utility law. A registered lobbyist in Massachusetts for over thirty years, Mr. Bonsall has represented clients before the Massachusetts legislature and the executive branch on a broad range of issues including taxes, environmental regulation, utility restructuring, energy policy, procurement and finance. Before joining the firm in 1989, he served as state director for government relations for AT&T, and earlier as chairman of the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities. Mr. Bonsall is a graduate of Boston College Law School and formerly served as chairman of SCG Legal.

M. Tracey Brooks is a partner at New York member firm Featherstonhaugh, Wiley & Clyne, where her practice is focused primarily on state government relations and administrative law. Prior to joining the firm, she served as the president and CEO of a healthcare association, where she directed the regulatory, political and advocacy arm of family-planning healthcare providers. Ms. Brooks also served as regional director for then-Senator Hillary Rodham Clinton from 2005 through her presidential primary in 2007, representing the Senator in her work with government, political and community leaders in 15 counties in upstate New York. She was the 2002 Democratic nominee for the New York State Assembly's 108th district and a candidate for the United States House of Representatives in the 21st congressional district in 2008. Ms. Brooks received her J.D. from Albany Law School of Union University.

Celeste Bruce is a partner at Maryland member firm Rifkin Weiner Livingston, where she has represented major national and international corporations in complex litigation matters in state and federal courts as well as before administrative agencies and commissions. Her experience includes litigating antitrust matters, business and partnership disputes, patent infringement, contract disputes, zoning and land use litigation, fraud, commercial bankruptcy matters, including fraudulent transfers and preferences disputes, and other matters involving complex commercial and business law. Ms. Bruce is a graduate of Catholic University's Columbus School of Law. She is also president-elect of the Maryland chapter of the Federal Bar Association.

Henry Bubel is a tax lawyer at New York City member firm Patterson Belknap Webb & Tyler and vice chairman of SCG Legal. He has in-depth knowledge of the income taxation of both corporations and partnerships, as well as estate, gift and trust taxation, particularly for ultra-high net worth and cross-border families. Mr. Bubel applies this knowledge in both tax planning and tax controversies, often working with family offices and trust companies. He is especially knowledgeable about tax-efficient methods of diversifying the risks associated with concentrated stock positions, life insurance tax issues and insurance products. Mr. Bubel received his J.D. from the American University Washington College of Law and his LL.M. from the New York University School of Law.

Michael Buchanan is a litigation partner at New York City member firm Patterson Belknap Webb & Tyler, focusing his practice on white collar defense and investigations as well as patent litigation. He also represents clients in cybersecurity law matters. Recently, he conducted an investigation on behalf of a financial services company regarding a potential data breach and provided counseling on breach notification and disclosure issues for the company. Mr. Buchanan co-authored an article analyzing the implications of the In re Adobe Systems data breach ruling for plaintiffs and has participated in seminars regarding data breaches, notification issues, and incident response strategies. Earlier in his career, Mr. Buchanan spent over nine years in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of New Jersey, where he handled matters involving the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, insider trading, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, healthcare kickbacks, off-label marketing, and Medicare/Medicaid and private insurance fraud. He received his J.D. from Brooklyn Law School.

Loudon "Hap" Campbell is a member of Pennsylvania member firm Eckert Seamans, where he chairs its government affairs practice. He represents and advocates on behalf of trade and professional associations and corporate clients from a variety of business sectors, including insurance, residential construction and development, land use and zoning, automotive, and licensed professionals. Mr. Campbell is also a member of the firm's regulated substances group, a multidisciplinary team of lawyers and government affairs professionals who advise clients establishing and operating businesses involved in the financing, manufacturing, processing, distribution, marketing, and retail sale of marijuana for medical use where authorized by state law. He helps clients navigate licensing and other complex legal and regulatory issues surrounding the fast-growing business of medical cannabis. Mr. Campbell was awarded his J.D. by the University of Pittsburgh School of Law.

Shawn Chang is of counsel at District of Columbia member firm Wiley Rein. A former chief counsel in the U.S. House of Representatives, Mr. Chang uses his extensive Capitol Hill experience to assist clients with matters pertaining to communications, technology, commerce, transportation, and energy. He provides strategic advice on legislative, public policy, and legal issues, with an in-depth knowledge of the inner workings of Congress and administrative agencies. Mr. Chang also serves as co-chair of Wiley Rein's LGBT & Allies Affinity Group. He is a graduate of the George Washington University Law School.

Rob Clarke is a partner at Florida member firm Ausley McMullen. Board-certified by the Florida Bar in business litigation, he practices in the area of civil litigation and serves as trial counsel in a broad range of cases including complex commercial business disputes, significant personal injury and wrongful death claims, class actions, and other litigation and regulatory matters. In addition to his litigation practice, he also teaches Florida civil procedure and trial practice at the Florida State University College of Law. Mr. Clarke also chairs the Florida Bar Civil Procedure Rules Committee. He is a graduate of the Florida State University College of Law.

Elizabeth Clyne has served as New York member firm Featherstonhaugh, Wiley & Clyne's managing partner for 18 years, where she focuses on the delivery of legislative and governmental relations services to clients with a vast array of issues at the state and local level. She has coordinated and developed legislative strategy for private-sector clients including Fortune 100 companies, trade associations, corporations, and partnerships. Ms. Clyne is also co-author with Jim Featherstonhaugh of the New York chapter of Lobbying, PACs and Campaign Finance, published annually by Thompson West. Ms. Clyne is currently chairman of SCG Legal. She received her J.D. from Albany Law School of Union University.

Eimear Collins is a partner at Ireland member firm Mason Hayes & Curran, where she advises domestic and international corporations on commercial, contractual and insurance disputes. She also has vast experience in professional negligence claims, breach of undertaking claims and fraudulent dispositions, as well as in advising corporations on risk management and environmental law. Ms. Collins is a recognized expert in property disputes including landlord and tenant disputes and regularly advises on Irish landlord and tenant law. She represents clients at all stages of litigation and dispute resolution and has appeared before all litigation and dispute resolution tribunals including the commercial court, high court, supreme court, arbitrations, mediations and expert determinations. Ms. Collins completed her legal education at the University of Cardiff.

Tom Downey is a director at Colorado member firm Ireland Stapleton Pryor & Pascoe. Drawing on his substantial experience as both a government official and private attorney, Mr. Downey helps his clients navigate all aspects of regulatory law. The majority of his practice consists of advising and representing corporate clients in the administrative, transactional and disciplinary processes related to liquor licensing, legalized marijuana and licenses governed by the Colorado Department of Regulatory Agencies. Prior to joining the firm, Mr. Downey led Denver's Department of Excise and Licenses, issuing and regulating 25,000 business licenses in Denver in 180 categories. During that time, he redrafted Denver's policies and procedures for liquor licensing and wrote the original policies and procedures for Denver's legalized recreational marijuana licenses. Mr. Downey is a graduate of the Villanova University School of Law.

David Greenspan is a partner in the litigation department in Winston & Strawn's New York office, where he co-chairs the firm's college sports sub-practice. Mr. Greenspan litigates complex commercial disputes at both the trial and appellate court levels, and in arbitrations. With respect to sports-related litigation, Mr. Greenspan regularly represents the NFL Players Association and NFL players and has appeared in numerous matters involving players such as Tom Brady, Ray Rice, Adrian Peterson, Terrell Owens, Michael Vick, Plaxico Burress, Scott Fujita, Terrell Suggs, Albert Haynesworth, Ashley Lelie, and Ricky Williams. He has also represented NBA players, the NBA Players Association, the MLB Players Association, the NHL Players' Association, collegiate athletes, professional poker players, a prospective NHL owner, professional sports agents, and an Olympic gold medalist. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, Mr. Greenspan currently chairs the New York City Bar Association's sports law committee.

Tracey Heinzman is a partner at District of Columbia member firm Wiley Rein. She has been representing clients for more than twenty years in a broad range of environmental, health, and safety matters. Ms. Heinzman is nationally recognized for her strategic representation of businesses that manufacture and market chemicals, pesticides, biocides, and other highly regulated products, and works extensively with scientific experts and consultants in the areas of public health, risk assessment, toxicology, ecotoxicity, carcinogenicity, children's health and occupational exposure. She is a graduate of the University of Virginia School of Law.

Joseph Herlihy is general counsel of Boston College, where he has responsibility for managing all of the institution's legal affairs and supervising the work of the various law firms it engages to represent it in select matters. Mr. Herlihy received his J.D. from Boston University, where he was an editor of the law review. He also holds a master's degree in French from Yale University, and earned his bachelor's degree at Bowdoin College. Prior to arriving at Boston College, Mr. Herlihy practiced at the Boston law firm of Goodwin, Proctor & Hoar, where he specialized in real estate law.

Steven Hogan is an associate at Florida member firm Ausley McMullen. His practice focuses on commercial litigation, tax litigation, and commercial drone law. Before joining the firm, Mr. Hogan clerked for Florida Supreme Court Justice Charles Canady. He is the author of The Drone Revolution: How Robotic Aviation Will Change the World, and host of the "Drone Law Today" podcast. Mr. Hogan is a graduate of the Florida State University College of Law.

Deborah Johnson is an author and winner of the 2015 Harper Lee Prize for Legal Fiction for The Secret of Magic, which she published in 2014. The prize, authorized by Ms. Lee and co-sponsored by the University of Alabama School of Law and the ABA Journal, is given annually to a book-length work of fiction that best illuminates the role of lawyers in society and their power to effect change. Ms. Johnson is the first woman and African-American author to win the prize. Born in Missouri, she grew up in Omaha, Nebraska. After college, she lived in San Francisco and then for many years in Rome, Italy, where she worked as a translator and editor of doctoral theses and at Vatican Radio. Ms. Johnson is also author of The Air Between Us, which received the Mississippi Library Association Award for fiction.

August Matteis, Jr. is a partner at Weisbrod Matteis & Copley, where he represents corporate plaintiffs in trials and litigations across the country. Mr. Matteis typically represents companies that have suffered damages from theft of intellectual property, fraud, unfair business practices, and breach of contract. He also represents policyholders in complex insurance coverage disputes and bad faith litigation, as well as whistleblowers and other individual plaintiffs in cases involving fraud and discrimination. Mr. Matteis received both his J.D. and LL.M. from the Georgetown University Law Center.

Stephan Menzemer is a partner at Germany member firm Graf von Westphalen, where he focuses his practice on information technology and telecommunications, contracts and healthcare. He counsels leading IT suppliers and users and their management on all matters relating to their core business. He has provided advice in a number of significant German and international IT projects in the industrial, banking, public and IT sectors with the inclusion of near and offshore operations and outsourcing, public-private partnerships and public tenders as well as the establishment and verification of data protection and IT security structures. Mr. Menzemer studied law at the University of Frankfurt am Main, the University of Aix-en-Provence, and the University of Marseille.

Graeme Menzies is of counsel to England member firm Mills & Reeve, where he specializes in resolving complex commercial disputes and leads the firm's North American desk. He advises public and private companies and public institutions, principally universities and health care facilities. Mr. Menzies' varied work experience includes fraud and bribery investigations, product recalls, international Internet gaming disputes, corporate warranty claims, shareholder and partnership disputes, and injunction applications to freeze assets and protect intellectual property and confidential information. He is an accredited mediator and a member of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and the International Bar Association. Mr. Menzies is also currently treasurer of SCG Legal. He completed his law degree at the University of Cambridge.

D. William (Bill) Moreau, Jr. is a partner at Indiana member firm Barnes & Thornburg, where he chairs the firm's interdisciplinary higher education practice group. He represents clients before local, state, and federal legislative, administrative, and regulatory bodies. Trained as a litigator and appellate advocate, Mr. Moreau served former U.S. Senator Evan Bayh as his deputy secretary of state and chief of staff, gubernatorial transition director, chief of staff, and legislative director. Earlier in his career, he worked on Capitol Hill, handling environmental and energy issues for U.S. Senator Birch Bayh during his last term. He is a graduate of the Georgetown University Law Center and former chairman of SCG Legal.

John Myers is a partner at Manitoba member firm Taylor McCaffrey, where he practices primarily in the field of intellectual property protection and enforcement. Mr. Myers also deals with regulatory issues related to all aspects of the manufacture, distribution, marketing and dispensing of pharmaceutical products and services, both domestically and internationally. He has appeared before courts in Manitoba, the Federal Court, the Federal Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court of Canada, and has coordinated litigation matters for clients in the U.S., Singapore, Hong Kong, and other jurisdictions. Mr. Myers is a recipient of the commemorative medal for the golden jubilee of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II for making a "significant contribution to the community, his fellow citizens and to Canada" as an advocate for child health and pediatric research. He completed his legal education at the University of Manitoba.

Craig Newman is a partner at New York City member firm Patterson Belknap Webb & Tyler and a recognized leader in both complex financial litigation and global cybersecurity. As a seasoned litigation partner and former general counsel at both a multibillion dollar international private equity firm and a Fortune 500-owned media consortium, Mr. Newman is steeped in key issues currently facing global organizations and often fills the role of senior outside advisor to his clients. He also chairs the firm's privacy and data security practice, is a founding contributor to the firm's data security blog, and was recognized by The National Law Journal as one of 2015's "Cybersecurity & Data Privacy Trailblazers." His practice focuses on litigation involving sophisticated financial products, including swaps and derivatives, special litigation committee and board investigations, advising boards and organizations on cybersecurity, including data breach preparedness and cyber insurance assessment, and representing public, private, and non-profit institutions victimized by data breaches. Mr. Newman graduated from the University of Detroit School of Law.

David Poisson became CEO of SCG Legal in 2011. Previously, he was of counsel to the law firm of Howe Anderson & Steyer in Washington, DC. He was elected in 2005 to the first of two terms in the Virginia General Assembly, where he served as deputy House minority whip. Mr. Poisson was also legislative director and chief counsel to the late Senator Terry Sanford of North Carolina and later served as chief of staff and counsel to then-Representative, now Assistant Senate Minority Leader, Richard Durbin of Illinois. He received his Ph.D. and J.D. from the University of Arizona and his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Michael Renaud is the intellectual property section division head at Mintz Levin and serves as a member of the firm's policy committee. With a background in mechanical engineering and nearly 20 years' experience practicing law, he has the combination of technical and legal skills essential to a strategic patent practice. He has achieved courtroom victories and negotiated favorable settlements on behalf of both patent owners and accused infringers in complex negotiations and protracted litigation. He has also developed strategies for and guided clients through monetization programs for complex technology portfolios. Several recent monetization programs have each returned tens of millions of dollars through litigation, licensing, and sale activities. Mr. Renaud has particularly deep experience litigating Section 337 matters before the International Trade Commission, and also has achieved significant success in federal district courts, including the Eastern District of Texas, District of Delaware, Northern District of California, District of Massachusetts, and numerous others. He received his J.D. from the University of Connecticut School of Law.

Michael Rezendes is a member of The Boston Globe's Spotlight Team, and is one of the reporters and editors who won the 2003 Pulitzer Prize for Public Service for investigating sexual abuse in the Catholic Church. As a staff writer and editor at the Globe since 1989, Mr. Rezendes has covered presidential, state and local politics, and was a weekly essayist, roving national correspondent, city hall bureau chief, and the assistant editor for national news. As a member of the Spotlight Team, he has investigated sexual abuse in the Catholic Church, the September 11th attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, and financial corruption in the nation's charitable foundations. He is a co-author of Betrayal: The Crisis in the Catholic Church, and a contributor to Sin Against the Innocents: Sexual Abuse by Priests and the Role of the Catholic Church. Mr. Rezendes graduated from Boston University and received an M.F.A. from the American Film Institute.

Alan Rifkin is managing partner of Maryland member firm Rifkin Weiner Livingston. Recognized by The Daily Record in 2007 as one of 50 "Influential Marylanders" and by Super Lawyers® every year from 2008 to 2012 as one of the country's premier sports and entertainment lawyers, Mr. Rifkin was former Governor William Donald Schaefer's chief legislative officer and counsel. He also served as counsel to the Senate of Maryland under former Senate President Melvin A. "Mickey" Steinberg. Mr. Rifkin's current areas of practice include business law and transactions, sports law and transactions and complex civil and commercial litigation. In the area of sports law, he represents the Baltimore Orioles in a wide variety of matters, including a recently negotiated agreement with Sarasota, Florida, to build a new spring training camp for the ball club. Mr. Rifkin is a graduate of the University of Maryland School of Law and former chairman of SCG Legal.

Justin Ripman is senior partner at England member firm Mills & Reeve, where he chairs the board and oversees the firm's strategy across its offices in six cities in England. For the past 25 years he has headed up the firm's landed estate practice, acting for some of the largest stately homes in the country, providing overall strategic tax and trust advice and dealing with complex trust issues and reorganizations both for UK and offshore trustees. He has also previously headed the firm's private client team and been a key player in building private client work as a core sector of the firm. He attended the University of Cambridge.

Steven Schultz is chief legal counsel at Purdue University, where he is responsible for advising the president and board of trustees on legal matters involving the university and overseeing external legal work, reviewing contracts and policies, and providing advice and assistance on operations and programs. A native of Indianapolis, Mr. Schultz has a bachelor's degree from Butler University and law degrees from Yale Law School and the University of Cambridge. He has worked as an attorney with two law firms and as chief legal counsel to then-Governor, now Purdue University President Mitchell Daniels. Mr. Schultz also has served as general counsel for Irwin Financial Corporation, executive director of the Louisville and Southern Indiana Bridges Authority, and vice president and general counsel of Southeastern Indiana Health Organization.

Peter Shields is managing partner of District of Columbia member firm Wiley Rein, where he is responsible for the overall management of the firm, and development and implementation of the firm's long-term strategy focusing on client service, value billing, operational efficiencies, diversity, and tactical growth. In this role, he chairs the executive and management committees and leads the firm's efforts to provide exceptional, effective, and value-based legal services. Mr. Shields has 25 years of experience working with clients in all sectors of the telecommunications industry. His broad practice is largely focused on providing regulatory and public policy advocacy to wireline telephone companies, wireless carriers, and other providers of satellite, video, and other communications services. A former president of the Federal Communications Bar Association, Mr. Shields has a J.D. from Syracuse University College of Law.

Carlos Soltero is a partner at Texas member firm McGinnis Lochridge, where he represents plaintiffs and defendants in civil litigation, including business and property disputes, malpractice, personal injury and wrongful death cases. He serves on the firm's management committee, and heads its litigation and South Texas practice groups. Board-certified in personal injury trial law, Mr. Soltero's work has included obtaining judgments and settlements on behalf of plaintiffs in wrongful death and personal injury cases involving trucking and other accidents. He also routinely represents clients in complex business litigation, serves regularly as lead or co-counsel in complex civil cases, and often represents or assists other lawyers in a range of professional and personal litigation matters. Mr. Soltero is a graduate of Yale Law School.

Alice van der Schee is a partner at Netherlands member firm Van Benthem & Keulen, where she specializes in the field of corporate law. She advises both domestic and foreign companies, including a substantial number of large German companies, on internal corporate issues such as co-determination and employment law. In addition, she often represents clients in national and international trade disputes. Ms. van der Schee currently serves on the board of directors of SCG Legal. She completed her legal studies in Rotterdam and has been practicing law since 1990. She has also been a registered Rechtsanwältin in the district of Düsseldorf since 1995.

Glenn Wong is professor emeritus of sport management at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst's Isenberg School of Management. Previously, he served as professor and department head of the department of sport management and acting dean of the school of physical education at the University of Massachusetts. His research interests encompass labor issues for college student-athletes, salary arbitration in major league baseball, arbitration and mediation issues in professional sports, employment contracts for college coaches, conference commissioners and athletic directors, and statistical analysis of minor league baseball and major league performance. Mr. Wong authored Essentials of Sports Law and The Comprehensive Guide to Careers in Sports. He is a graduate of Boston College Law School.

Brian Wynne is president and chief executive officer of the Association for Unmanned Vehicle Systems International, the world's largest nonprofit organization dedicated to the advancement of unmanned systems. Previously, he was president of the Electric Drive Transportation Association, the leading industry trade group for battery, hybrid, plug-in hybrid and fuel-cell electric vehicles. He also was a member of the Intelligent Transportation Society of America staff and chief executive officer of the Association for Automatic Identification and Mobility. Mr. Wynne received his bachelor's degree from the University of Scranton and his master's degree from the School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University. He was a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Cologne in Germany.